28 February 1974

Mr. Rodriguez:

██████████ advised by telephone today that Mr. Colby's engraved invitation to the "Evening With the Vice President" at the Kennedy Center is being mailed today.

██████████ has now been told that he may invite two guests - so Mr. ██████████ has also been invited.

It seems that ██████████ is responsible for picking up the tab for his two would-be guests ($35 each) out of pocket. He feels getting to meet Mr. Colby (if he accepts) is worth it. This is over and above his own round-trip air transportation from California!

STATINTL

The President's Executive Interchange Program has arranged a dinner for all participants on 28 March at 6 p.m. at the Kennedy Center in Washington to be hosted by Vice President Ford.

The participants have been given a choice of either attending with the head of their company of assignment or the head of their sponsoring agency. [REDACTED] preference is Mr. Colby.

STATINTL

We understand that through some mechanism an invitation will be sent to Mr. Colby to attend (with the stipulation that substitutes are not acceptable.)
